

Childcare Provider COVID-19 Survey

April 3 – May 4, 2020

Financial Assistance (122 responses)

Highlights

Childcare providers are struggling with the Paycheck Protection Program (PPP) application process. The program is in high demand and there is a limited amount of funds. Many providers report a disconnect between instructions from local banks and the Small Business Administration. This may present equity issues for childcare providers who are unable to apply for the funds or do not have business accounts with lenders. If they can secure them, these funds will allow providers to continue to pay their employees and stay in business.

Childcare providers are in need of legal support so they can navigate a variety of scenarios (human resource issues, breach of contract, force majeure).

Providers also expressed an interest in learning more about paid leave through the Families First Coronavirus Response Act (FFCRA).

Business Information

Description that defines your business (122 responses)

Business or organization classification (122 responses)

Are you self-employed? (122 responses)

Do you have a current relationship with a bank, meaning a business account with that bank? (54 responses) This question was added on 4/10/2020

If you are still paying educators, how long can you continue to pay educators? (59 responses) This question was added on 4/8/2020

(59 responses) This question was added on 4/8/2020

Childcare Provider COVID-19 Survey

April 3 – May 4, 2020

Participant Interests

Are you interested in financial assistance? (122 responses)

Type(s) of financial assistance you are most interested in learning about (122 responses)

Support Preferences

Do you require one-on-one support to navigate financial assistance options? (122 responses)

Would you be interested in webinars, recorded videos or other virtual assistance methods? (122 responses)

